Dear Voyager Families:

April has been a busy month in the Voyager house! We are halfway through with the WASL and are getting ready for our Social Studies skits and solar car race!

WASL Testing:

Our last scheduled WASL testing days are Tuesday, April 21st through Thursday, April 23rd. Make up tests will be given on Friday and into next week if necessary.

Silk Road Skits:

Based upon the surveys Mrs. Dhillon received back from parents, we have chosen this Friday, April 24th, from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. for the Voyager students to perform their Silk Road skits. The students have worked hard on these skits which represent their learning about world history as well as meet the Washington state requirement for the Classroom Based Assessment in the Arts. We would love to have you join us! When you arrive please check in at the office and go directly to the gym. The performances will be held on the stage.

Solar Car Race:

The date for our solar car race has yet to be determined, but we are getting much closer to having the materials we need for the race track. We will keep you posted...

Botany Expedition:

We will be starting our new expedition this Monday, April 27th! In preparation for this, all students need to bring 1 new notebook or composition book to school by Wednesday, April 22nd. This will be a joint expedition between science and social studies and will focus on the food we eat. This expedition will run from April 27th through June 5th.

8th Grade Trip:

Its official! The 8th grade end of the year trip has been scheduled for Wednesday, June 10th through Friday, June 12th. More details to follow!

Thank you all for your incredible support this year!

Sincerely,
